Take a former country star, add a beautiful mining magnate, stir into a tiny town known for its fossil beds and stand back. It is an explosive mixture! Wesley Callaghan was a star ten years ago, now he is an itinerant ranch hand. Yelisa MacKenzie has inherited her family's mercury mine and operates it herself. One night at the local bar, they are both in the audience when a small band takes the stand. The leader recognizes Wesley and persuades him to sing a couple of numbers. Yelisa is intrigued and electricity crackles between them. Complications set in when Wesley's current girlfriend causes ructions. Wesley decides to reactivate his music career and life is very exciting. An unexpected baby girl brings them a hefty dose of reality: she is not Yelisa's but is she Wesley's?
